Passenger hit on head by cabin baggage.

A British Airways passenger was rushed to hospital after a bag fell on him from the plane's overhead lockers.

The incident took place when the plane arrived at Heathrow, as the cabin crew prepared the jet for disembarkation. Witnesses reportedly heard a "terrible sound" as the item of hand luggage struck the man's head.

London Ambulance Service were called to the scene. A spokesperson said they treated a man for a head injury at the scene before taking him to hospital.

BA allows more hand luggage on board its flights than most of its commercial competitors, permitting each passenger one cabin bag up to 23 kg, plus an additional handbag or laptop bag, regardless of ticket class.

Imagine you were that passenger, write the complaint letter you would send to the airline company.
